

Plaza Donuts Reward Electrical Tech Students for Good Deeds

Gail Stark, board chair for the Trumbull County Art Gallery knew that that the facility would soon be moving from the Eastwood Mall. Understanding the realities of a tight budget, who could she get to move and install the electrical lighting in the new facility? She contacted Dave Clegg, program instructor for the Electrical Technology program, at the TCTC. She was not disappointed. His students performed all of the necessary tasks.

Clegg stated, “As part of our curriculum, the students study the effects of lighting, the characteristics of light and learn how to install and repair lighting fixtures. This was a valuable learning experience because it allowed them to utilize their program skills in a real world setting.

In addition to their work for the gallery, the Electrical Tech students are also wiring a house for the Habitat for Humanity on Hazelwood Avenue in Warren. Helping to wire houses for the organization is an annual projects performed by the program students.

To recognize the good deeds of the students, Plaza Donuts provided them with four dozen donuts. The students enjoyed the donuts and were appreciative that the bakery took notice of their accomplishments.
